M: Hello. International Friends Club. Can I help you?

W: Oh, hello. I read about your club in the paper today and I thought I'd phone to find out a bit more.

M: Yes, certainly. Well, we are a sort of social club for people from different countries. It's quite a new club—we have about 50 members at the moment, but we are growing all the time.

W: That sounds interesting. I'm British actually, and I came to Washington about three months ago. I'm looking for ways to meet people. Er, what kinds of events do you organize?

M: Well, we have social get-togethers, and sports events, and we also have language evenings.

W: Could you tell me something about the language evenings?

M: Yes. Every day except Thursday we have a language evening. People can come and practice their languages—you know, over a drink or something. We have different languages on different evenings. Monday—Spanish; Tuesday—Italian; Wednesday—German; and Friday—French. On Thursday we usually have a meal in a restaurant for anyone who wants to come.

W: Well, that sounds great. I really need to practice my French.

M: OK. Well, if you can just give me your name and address, I'll send you the form and some more information. If you join now, you can have the first month free.

M: Hello, it's me David Smith. Welcome back to Today on History. Today is July 31st. So I'll talk about Curt Gowdy. Born on July 31st, 1919, he was an excellent sports broadcaster and host of the outdoor show. He developed the idea for the television sports show and hosted ABC's Wide World of Sports, which showed a variety of sports on Saturday afternoon. In 1964, Gowdy made a video for a show in which he and the famous fisherman Joe Brooks went fishing in the Argentine mountains. It became a hit and almost immediately ABC created a new show built around outdoor amusement—The American Sportsman, hosted by Curt Gowdy. The show focused on fishing and hunting experiences involving famous persons from movie stars, athletes to educators. For millions of Americans, the show was their window to the natural world. Gowdy, an active environmentalist, was a member of the Conservation Hall of Fame International. To honor his work, the State of Wyoming built the Curt Gowdy State Park in 1972. The park lies above 6,450 feet in height. Gowdy loved it, saying "It has two beautiful lakes, hiking trails, fishing and beauty. What greater honor can a man receive?" OK, so much for today. Goodbye.

参考范文:

Dear Justine,

How have you been lately? I hope everything is going well with you. Last month, my family and I had an amazing trip to Lushan Mountain, and I'm excited to share the experience with you.

The trip was truly unforgettable. We were surrounded by the breathtaking views. Hiking up Lushan Mountain was the highlight of our adventure. Along the way, we came across some playful monkeys, which added fun to the journey.

Overall, the trip was rewarding. It made my family closer as we got together and immersed ourselves in the beauty of nature. It reminded me of the importance of spending time appreciating the simple joys in life and creating lasting memories with loved ones.

Yours,

Li Hua

参考范文:

Moved by the man's determination, Lucas decided to lend a hand. He knelt down beside the man and began picking up the fish and putting them back into the ocean. Together, they worked tirelessly. Lucas felt a newfound sense of purpose with each fish he saved. As the sun began to rise higher in the sky, the puddles on the beach started to dry up, and the number of trapped fish decreased. Lucas and the man continued their work, and their hearts filled with the idea that they had made a difference, no matter how small.

Finally, Lucas couldn't help but reflect on his own life. He realized that he had been so caught up in his own worries and concerns that he had neglected the simple act of kindness towards others. But watching what the man had done, he saw the power of one person's actions to make a difference in the world. He thanked the man for showing him the importance of kindness and promised to carry the lesson with him. He decided to be a kind person to help others.
